

ABSTRACT

A system and method for automatically forwarding calls directed to a wireless telephone device is disclosed. A call forwarding operation is automatically
5 enabled in response to the wireless telephone device being at a particular location and is automatically disabled in response to the wireless telephone device leaving said predetermined location.